EXPERIENCE. KNOWLEDGE. DETERMINATION.

With over thirty years experience providing subsystems, components, and services to the aerospace and defense industries, HEXADYNE Corporation has a proven heritage of supplying needed technology and supplies to areas under crisis. In the wake of recent worldwide conflicts and catastrophes, the need for constant vigilance and preparedness has never been more clear. As police, civil defense, and military operational lines blur and organizations rely more on each other for support, commonality and interoperability have become preeminent criteria for successful mission performance.

At the same time, fire, rescue, and other emergency organizations are being tasked for consequence management in dense populations to prepare for mass casualty incidents threatened by natural and man-made disasters that otherwise will lead to catastrophic effects on infrastructure.

HEXADYNE Corporation has developed the relationships and networks to assist in procurement of vital equipment and services necessary to meet your civil readiness and response needs. We are prepared to support both domestic and international police, first responder, and military personnel.

HEXADYNE possesses the requisite experience and strategic relationships with our partners in Southeast Asia and the Pacific Rim to deal with ITAR issues and new import / export regulations. Our experts stand ready to reliably facilitate international trade in critical product and services.
